Polarization phase gate with a tripod atomic system

S. Rebić, D. Vitali, C. Ottaviani, P. Tombesi INFM and Dipartimento di Fisica, Università di Camerino, I-62032 Camerino, Italy
M. Artoni INFM and Dipartimento di Chimica e Fisica dei Materiali, Università di Brescia, I-25133 Brescia, Italy
F. Cataliotti INFM and Dipartimento di Fisica, Università di Catania, I-95124 Catania, Italy
R. Corbalán. Departament de Física, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, E-08193, Bellaterra, Spain

Abstract

Large cross-Kerr nonlinearities occurring in a four-level system coherently prepared in a tripod configuration are shown to produce phase shifts of order $\pi$. Such an effect may be observed in ultracold rubidium atoms where it could be feasibly exploited toward the realization of a polarization phase gate.